ABOUT ME

I am a passionate and driven frontend developer with a solid understanding of core web technologies including HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. Recently graduated from Expertizo university and eager to apply my skills in building responsive, user-friendly websites and applications. I am actively learning and exploring modern frameworks such as React, and I am excited to continue growing in this dynamic field. My attention to detail, problem-solving abilities, and commitment to improving the user experience motivate me to stay updated with industry trends and best practices. As a quick learner, I am eager to collaborate with teams to create innovative solutions and contribute to impactful projects.
